

Moving Forward to Modernize Back-office Systems in Health

Preparing a Healthcare Organization for Oracle Cloud

More difficult than developing a cloud strategy is moving forward with it. Despite compelling business drivers to move to Oracle Cloud, many organizations have questions about how to take that first step.

Challenge

This healthcare organization needed to modernize its HR and Finance system but lacked the understanding of what their journey to the cloud would look like. To complete their business case and receive approval to proceed, stakeholders required more information about how long the transformation would take, its cost, organizational impacts, and Oracle Cloud's fit considering existing business realities.

Solution

Sierra Systems, an NTT DATA Company, offers a Cloud Assessment Program, a brief but comprehensive engagement to plan your journey to Oracle Cloud. This deeper dive into Oracle's transformative cloud applications delivers a high-level framework and plan, equipping you with knowledge to confidently move forward.

For this provincial health client, Sierra Systems' Oracle Cloud experts delivered a series of workshops for each area within HR and Finance, reviewing the best practice business processes delivered in Oracle Cloud. We then led active discussions on cloud project governance, the adopt and adapt approach, as well as business readiness and sustainment considerations.

Throughout this process, Sierra Systems identified business priorities and complexities, gathering the information required to clearly define the scope, staffing and budget in an actionable, transformative project plan.

Benefits

Armed with a comprehensive deliverable that defined all aspects of a high-level cloud implementation plan, the client understood the full view of their Oracle Cloud program. By better understanding how to implement cloud and what to expect during and after implementation, they had a compelling business case for change, and the information needed to move the organization forward.
